County parade may be nixed beyond '76

The annual county fair parade clings to life by a tenuous thread as a result of County Fair Association board decision Tuesday night.

Directors asked the entertainment and special events committee to contact both the City of Pleasanton and Chamber of Commerce towards the goal of at least helping underwrite a parade in 1976.

According to board president Tom Kitayama, the board believes it imperative that a parade be held next year — it being the bicentennial year.

But whether the parade, if granted a one-year lease on life, will be the time-honored march along Pleasanton's Main Street or a smaller one through the Fairgrounds is very much up in the air.

The entertainment committee, chaired by Richard McCarthy, an Oakland resident, had recommended discontinuing the parade because of apparent lack of interest on the part of Pleasanton area merchants and tighter finances.

Directors were particularly concerned about dropping the parade on the 200th anniversary of the nation, after having held it for almost 40 years.

Kitayama expressed reservations about the parade surviving past June, 1976.

Directors approved a report recommending rental fee hikes for the Fairgrounds barbecue areas, the major exhibit buildings, amphitheatre, cafeteria, paved area used by sports car clubs and travel trailer rally areas.

Lee Hall, Fair Association secretary-manager, said projections indicated the Fair could realize $10,000 in additional rental fees (based on number of uses of a year ago).

The barbecue areas would rent for $100 (largest area next to Pleasanton Avenue), $75 (for barbecue with less than 100 persons expected) and $50 (small barbecue area).

Other rental fees proposed were as follows:

Cafeteria, from $60 to $100; Exhibition Hall, from $240 to $300; travel trailers, with electrical hookups, from $2.75 a night to $3; Young California Building, $600 per day; sports car paved area, from $90 to $100; amphitheatre, from $150 to $300 for commercial events and a raise of $20, to $70, for civic events; $7,000 of the $10,000 projected increase would come from barbecue area uses.

Hall added that $5,730 was taken in for 52 days of cafeteria rentals. At the new projected rental fee, the cafeteria could take in $7,350 for 52 days.

Director Dee Wilson was critical of the City of Pleasanton's handling of the negotiations for leasing of the Young California Building's four tennis courts.

"I can't understand why it hasn't gone to council yet," Wilson commented. "We've extended every consideration we could to the City of Pleasanton — they just haven't played ball with us."

Wilson, fellow directors and the Fairgrounds management have expressed keen interest in getting the tennis concession going as soon as it is payable.

The courts were to be finished yesterday.

Kitayama told The Times if nothing could be resolved in a hoped for meeting with City Manager Bill Edgar and Recreation Superintendent Bob Caporusso in the next few days, the Fair Association would probably try to operate the courts itself for the next six weeks. The city, depending on whether approval is given to the pact by the council on Nov. 24, could take over (and commence the lease) on Jan. 1, 1976. The pact would then be for just six months.

Under terms tentatively agreed to earlier, the city would pay $2,400 a month in rent and take care of all upkeep except the roof and walls.

Hall also reported on rates for exhibit space.

Under the new fees projected for line and end booths, the fair could realize an additional $9,745.

Directors also discussed a bicentennial program for next summer, noting that a planned meeting with county bicentennial reps had failed to come off.

Directors are now considering having their own bicentennial salute, possibly centered at the grandstand with a show anchored by a group such as the Johnny Mann Singers.

After a raucous and lengthy debate, directors voted 11-4, with 5 abstentions, for a straight design paddock — as opposed an "L" shape.

In other business, Hall reported on the annual trip to Sacramento for the budget review meeting.

He said he was very pessimistic about the Fair Association receiving its full $65,000 allocation.

The budget review committee, of the Division of Expositions and Fairs, said the Alameda County Fair should consider raising gate admission prices on major days (Saturdays, Sundays and July 4) and questioned a $10,000 allocation for antique farm equipment. Hall explained that the Fair didn't intend to spend that much but was for use by the department-at-large.

County needed in pipeline

Alameda County Bureau OAKLAND — There is "some urgency in the county getting involved in the (sewer) pipeline within the next month," Pleasanton City Manager Bill Edgar told the board of supervisors Wednesday.

"Pleasanton and VCS (Valley Community Services District) have been mulling around in this sewer mess for sometime," he said.

The Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency currently is sizing the proposed pipeline to take treated sewage from the valley across the hills to the East Bay Dischargers Authority.

The county has not been involved because VCS has been handling the unincorporated areas. There are an additional 500 acres of unincorporated area outside VCS however, for which no one apparently is planning.

The federal government will withdraw funding rather than limit it if the valley exceeds a "zero growth" pattern, Edgar said.

"I don't think we want to agree with zero growth," board chairman Fred Cooper chimed in.

"Agree to it or not, if they size the lines, you've got it," valley supervisorial representative John Murphy responded.

"It would be ridiculous to build a system that will be undersized when it's finished," supervisor Joseph Bort added.

Edgar, attending with LAVWMA's sanction, said the county must look at sizing the pipeline as well as the valley's sewer treatment plants.

Supervisors deferred any action and referred the matter to the county's public works, planning and legal departments.

BART to view expenses

Alameda County Bureau OAKLAND — The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's directors will discuss procedures for submitting and validating expense accounts at this morning's meeting in BART's Oakland headquarters.

Valley BART director Robert Allen demanded the matter be put on the board's agenda following recent revelations of heavy billing by board president Richard Clark and vice president Elmer Cooper.

Clark, who charged the district more than $6,000 in expenses during the first seven months of the year, will be absent from the meeting "for personal reasons," Allen said.

Clark also ordered BART

staff to notify his attorney, Edward Healey, Jr., "of anyone who asks for documents relating to Clark."

That directive was passed on in memorandum by BART Staff Counsel Leonard Sullivan to district secretary Richard Sheppard, chief of police services Ralph Lindsey and general counsel Malcolm Barrett.

Healey said he is "investigating the motivation of certain people in making false charges against Clark."

Allen wants to require directors to identify the BART purpose of each expenditure and to report promptly on all travel outside the district, including a director's itinerary, costs incurred, purpose of the trip and details of what was achieved.

In a Times exclusive by Leshner investigative reporter Justin Roberts, vice president Cooper was found to have billed the district for $17,000 in expenses for seven months. His expenses included $4,000 for a trip to Nice, France, to attend a transit seminar, plus side trips to other European capitals which held no transit seminars.

Cooper has never reported to the board on his trip, but said he made literature obtained at the meetings available at BART headquarters.

The district attorneys in both Alameda and Contra Costa Counties as well as the Contra Costa County Grand Jury are investigating specific items of Clark's and Cooper's expense accounts.

The state's attorney general's office also is checking into the matter.

PLEASANTON — Pleasanton Foods owner Richard Sood is thinking about getting up a petition against parades down Main Street, but most other merchants are mild, both pro and con in their opinion about the community celebrations.

That was the conclusion of an informal Times poll taken among Main Street merchants yesterday.

Sood had the strongest feelings about parades.

"I'm hurt more than any other merchant when they block the streets for a parade," he said. "It's almost impossible for my customers to shop. I'm thinking about getting a petition to the Chamber of Commerce and the city council. If they are going to use my parking lot, they should put someone there to keep out people who don't use my store."

People use Sood's store during parades, all right, but they are not his regular customers. Instead there are long lines of candy bar and soda pop buyers, and it takes about 100 small purchases to equal one regular customer's load of groceries, said Sood.

There are other problems. Kids get up on the roof, run around and damage things. Last year some vandals hurt the air conditioning system and it cost $180 to repair it, cash right out of Sood's pocket since the insurance didn't cover it.

Even celebrations like the Pleasanton Days, involving no parade but lots of milling around by pedestrians, hurts Sood. People jam his parking lot with their cars instead of using the less convenient municipal lot off Peters Avenue.

"If we keep people out of the lot, there are hard feelings. If we don't, my customers go elsewhere that day," said Sood. Having parades on Sunday instead of Saturday may work a little better since Sunday is a much lighter day for Sood than Saturday, but the basic solution is for the city or parade sponsors to pay for good traffic direction which will keep his lot free for customers, he said.

Across the street from Pleasanton Foods, Gracedaryl Dickinson had a different view at the DoubleTake women's clothing store.

"Parades give a business exposure. You may not do so well that day, but the overall exposure is tremendous. Many of these people have never been downtown. They may not buy that day, but they do come back and buy," said Dickinson.

"I hope they do not discontinue the County Fair Parade. Parades are just great. They are part of the charm and character of Pleasanton. They give kids a chance to participate. If they didn't have a chance to perform in a parade, they wouldn't go to their dance schools and band practices. It keeps them off the streets," said Dickinson.

If Pleasanton had all its parades on Sunday, Dickinson would open her shop especially for the parades just for the exposure, she said.

What about shoplifting, something which Sood said increases during parades?

"That can happen at any time, said Dickinson. In her business, she saw no increase in shoplifting at parade time.

Down Main Street at Christensen's Tack Room, manager Leon Holliday said parades are "terrific" for his business.

The parade last Saturday hosted by Foothill High School and featuring 27 marching bands, was a boon to Christensen's, said Holliday.

"A lot of the spectators came in during the parade. We got some Sacramento kids in here. People say, 'Gee, whiz, an old tack store, let's see what it looks like.' They come in and buy coats, leisure suits, hats," he said.

Holliday would hate to see the Fair Parade dropped.

"People come from all over to see it. You can't even get a parking place the morning of the parade. Some places like Hayward won't even let them have a parade anymore. The police don't want the extra work. The Fair Parade is an old tradition," said Holliday.

Council race gets third candidate

PLEASANTON — Insurance salesman Russ Attebery became the third candidate to throw his hat into the ring for the city council race yesterday.

He joins incumbent councilman Roger McLain and Citizens Against Re-Development co-chairman Jim Jordan as the only candidates announced so far in the race.

Incumbent councilmen Ed Kinney and William Herlihy have not declared their electoral intentions yet. Herlihy told The Times that he is "51 percent yes and 49 percent no" on the question.

Gene Finch of Gene's Interiors confirmed yesterday that he is giving serious consideration to running for the council.

Attebery, an active member of the Lion's Club, has done business in Pleasanton for five years and has resided here for more than a year after living in Livermore since the early 1960's.

"I think I can do the voters some good," said Attebery about his desire to run. "I feel we should all get involved."

Valley blood donors rolling up sleeves

A new sense of urgency is impelling Valley residents to give away something more precious than money: their own blood.

Without expecting even a "thank you" from the unknown patient who will be using the blood within three weeks after it is donated, local people are rolling up their sleeves and reclining on the little white stretcher for the seven minutes it takes to give a pint of blood.

Dublin High staff and students, minimum age 17, are staging a major blood drive today, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. with anyone in the community invited.

Granada High in Livermore will be falling into line with a drive on Dec. 3.

There's a regular unit in Pleasanton, at the Veterans Hall (301 Main St.) from 2-6:30 p.m. on the first Tuesday of every odd-numbered month. Next collection will be Jan. 6.

Other local collections are scheduled for Valley Christian Center, Livermore, and the federal youth prison in Pleasanton, both this week. The Pleasanton Juniors are also considering a repeat of last year's blood drive.

As the holiday season approaches, nobody wants to think about unpleasanties like transfusions and surgery. But November, December and January are the months when blood supplies run perilously low. Regular donors are away, or too busy, or have a cold and can't give. Meanwhile, many people choose the winter for their elective surgery, while many more become ill because of the severe weather. So the demand for fresh blood grows.

This year, the Alameda-Contra Costa County Blood Bank (run by the Medical Association) is in worse shape than ever because this is the first winter that the 34 hospitals in the East Bay are accepting blood only from volunteer donors.

A study proved that blood from paid donors carried too much infection, so that system of collecting blood was dropped last January.

Relying only on volunteers has put tremendous pressure on the Blood Bank's two units — the "mini," a trailer mobile unit which is equipped to collect up to 60 pints a day, and the "maxi," a unit to be set up indoors to collect up to 900 pints. Combined, the units must average 220 pints EVERY DAY to supply the East Bay.

They're not always lucky. On Monday of this week, for example, they only returned with 121 pints from their visits to the Clorox plant in Pleasanton and Martinez where they sent their big unit.

They'll fall further behind over the two-day Thanksgiving holiday.

According to Sandra Nylander, one of the Blood Bank's well-informed donor recruiters, adults have nine to 13 pints of blood in their bodies, "and certainly can spare one pint."

Your body replaces the fluid within a day and all the blood cells within a week. You can donate, without any strain, once every eight weeks for a maximum of five times a year, she promises.

Although whole blood expires after three weeks in storage, almost all of it is used up before that time. The small amount of unused blood is put through an extraction process to salvage the plasma.

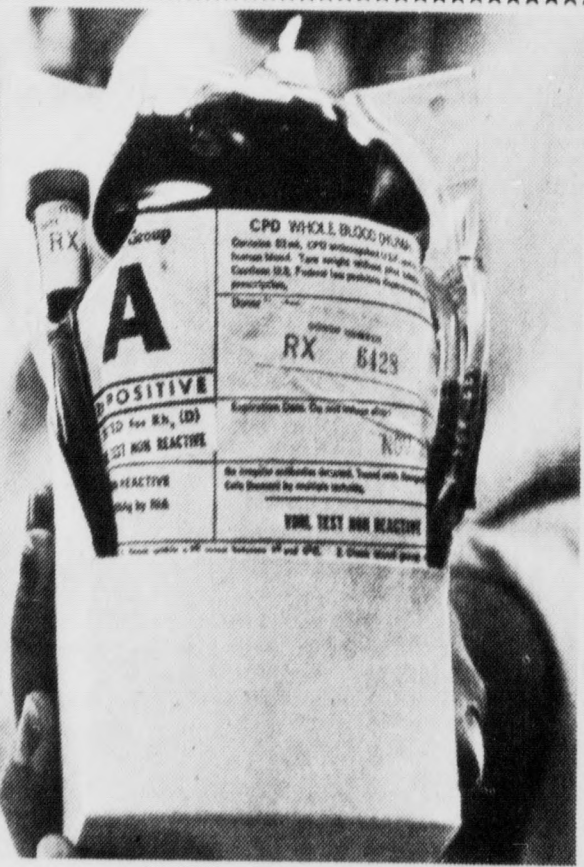

Giving blood through a club or community plan, or even for private credit, means your family avoids paying $50 a pint (and that's just for processing costs) and having to replace it on a two-for-one basis if anyone in your family needs it.

Blood is expensive because it costs so much to collect, test, process and store it until it is used. Yet large quantities are needed for open-heart surgery (as much as 100 pints), kidney dialysis, bleeding ulcers, hemophilia, leukemia and many types of surgery.

Unfortunately, only about 1 out of every 20 eligible blood donors has ever shared that life-giving substance.

But Valley dwellers are beginning to catch onto the idea of giving blood as "insurance" against the day their loved ones might need it — and as one contribution they can make to their communities.

Stereo theft

LIVERMORE — Stereo equipment valued at more than $600 was taken from Sheri Bernice Hildebrand's East Stanley Blvd. residence Monday.

Police theorized thieves jimmied the door latch with a card or similar object since they could find no signs of forced entry. Taken were a portable television set, an eight-track tape recorder, a combination record and tape player, and an AM/FM cassette unit.

Vandalism

PLEASANTON — Vandals destroyed a sign by throwing rocks through it for the second time in one month, causing $600 damage early Tuesday.

The "Plaza Professional Offices" sign at 4301 Valley Ave. had been wrecked one month ago in the same manner. Total cost to repair the damage was set at $1,200.

Shoplifters

LIVERMORE — A 14-year old boy was arrested and his two companions are being sought by police after they were seen shoplifting from the Country Market Tuesday.

Store Manager Robert Scott saw the three boys enter the store, take candy and leave without paying. He ran out to chase the boys but they jumped on their bikes and took off.

Scott got in his car and pursued the juveniles up Chestnut, where he finally apprehended one youth. Police questioned the boy and learned the identity of his two friends, who are now being sought.

Tackle lost

LIVERMORE — More than $350 of fishing gear was taken from the front porch of Walter Lewis Arnold's South S St. home sometime during the last week.

Arnold told police he placed the fishing equipment behind a tree on the front porch to hide it from view. Police have no suspects or clues in the burglary.

Girl hit

LIVERMORE — A five-year-old girl was run over by a car after a playmate had covered her with leaves while playing in the middle of the street Tuesday.

Judith Clutter of Redondo Way was treated for a cut in the back of her head and released from Valley Memorial Hospital.

Robert Louis Dry of Turquoise Way told police he was turning right onto Wagoner Drive from Redondo Ave. when he saw a young boy point to a pile of leaves. As Dry drove over the leaves, he said he heard a thump, looked back and saw a young girl come out of the pile bleeding.

Tools taken

LIVERMORE — Thieves broke a side window on Patrick Joseph Michael's car and stole tools and an AM/FM stereo radio before being seen and chased a short distance Monday.

Michael, of the 900 block of Sunset Drive, was visiting friends and had just stepped out of their house to leave when he noticed his car window broken. A nearby car began to drive away, and Michael pursued but lost it after it turned from Hillcrest.

He described the car as a late model Javelin or Mustang, medium color, with a faulty right rear taillight.

Car theft

PLEASANTON — A total of $500 in goods was stolen from Mike Girard Hagerty's car in the 800 block of East Angela St. early Wednesday.

Hagerty was awakened by noises and rose to see a dark-colored late model Chrysler drive away. He then saw the front end of his 1967 Volkswagen on the ground without wheels.

Thieves had taken the front wheels and mags, valued at $250, and a 25-channel Citizens Band radio, also worth $250.

Break in

PLEASANTON — A $200 FM/cassette stereo unit was stolen from a car parked in the Pleasanton Hotel parking lot sometime over the weekend.

Craig Allen Williams, a bartender at the hotel, returned Monday morning to find his car had been forcibly entered and the unit missing. Police found scratch marks near the wind wing leading them to believe a coathanger or similar object was used to slip through the crack and pop the doorlock.

Forced landing

No one was injured Tuesday night when this Piper Cherokee crash landed in an orchard at the end of Regent Road in Livermore. The pilot and his three passengers walked away from the plane. The plane apparently was headed for Livermore airport when it was forced to make an emergency landing in a field off Lexington. The plane is owned by James Caries, 1881 Lomitas, Livermore.

LAVWMA — pipeline or land disposal ?

Discussion of arrangements with East Bay Dischargers Authority and land application of wastewater headed the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency agenda Tuesday night.

LAVWMA board of directors unanimously approved a resolution confirming its intent to "proceed toward implementation of pipeline connection to the East Bay Dischargers Authority outfall sewer."

Project Director Daniel Murphy reported EBDA had requested LAVWMA pass such a resolution, but then withdrew its request for unknown reasons. The board decided to go ahead with its resolution to "negotiate in good faith" with EBDA to hook its proposed pipeline into the EBDA outfall.

Livermore LAVWMA representative Don Miller noted there is "still a possibility of land disposal," referring to the U.S. Army's Site 42, located near Brentwood. A portion of the land extends into the Las Positas area of Alameda County.

Miller suggested LAVWMA ask the Regional Water Quality Control Board for a ruling on the feasibility of using Site 42 for land disposal. LAVWMA had rejected land disposal of effluent earlier this year.

Miller admitted a definitive ruling by the regional board might "rule out the site for land disposal use by Geldertown."

If the regional board okayed land disposal Miller suggested LAVWMA use it.

VCSD representative Ron Hyde said he opposed land disposal for anyone. "If land disposal is bad for Geldertown to do, why isn't it bad for us to do, too?" Hyde asked.

Land disposal of sewage by either LAVWMA or Geldertown's New Town is not planned currently.

In other business, the board agreed to have staff interview prospective financial consultants. A member of the LAVWMA board will participate in the interviews. Staff failed to agree on which candidate to recommend to the board, so the three top firms will be interviewed.

Murphy said he hoped staff

SRV cityhood delayed a month

MARTINEZ — Although discussion of incorporating the greater San Ramon Valley has been deferred another month, Blackhawk Ranch appears to be a prime target of the plan.

Blackhawk's role in the proposed incorporation was revealed in testimony recently during the Local Agency Formation Commission's (LAFCO) consideration of two other valley incorporation measures.

LAFCO, however, voted not to decide on the cityhood application of Roundhill and Diablo until testimony is heard Dec. 10 on the greater San Ramon incorporation plan. Roundhill and Diablo residents expressed their desire for home rule and self determination. They said the larger plan forced them to reveal their own plans earlier than they had wished.

The larger proposal would have included both communities.

Mat girls take Division 11 title

LAFAYETTE — Kevin Searls convinced his closest competitors that it was his day one-third of the way through the race and went on to tie the course record at the North Coast Section Division II cross-country meet at the Reservoir yesterday.

The College Park senior cruised through three miles around the calm lake in 13:54, beating Dan Harvey of Dublin and Livermore's Boyd Tarin by a full ten seconds.

Harvey, winner of the EBAL meet six days ago, and Tarin, who finished second then, ran no more than ten yards apart yesterday and finished in 14:04 and :05 respectively.

Both agreed that Searls took command of the race early.

"He left us on Toilet Hill," Tarin laughed, referring to a rollercoaster-like segment of the course along the lake's eastern shore; capped by an outhouse.

Searls, whose sisters Diane and Jennifer also placed high yesterday came into view of the finish line long before anyone else while Harvey beat Tarin by less than two long strides.

Tarin's high finish, and help from Jeff Nixon, Victor Aguayo and Mike Nagel enabled Livermore to place second in the team standings with 76 points, four behind Mt. Diablo, which placed three runners in the top ten.

Granada's girls team stepped in to shore up the EBAL's pride with an awesome 42-point win in the girls varsity meet. Although Diana Stohr, in third, was their highest finisher, the Mats had just 50 points to 92 for second-place Northgate.

Stohr, primarily known as a middle distance runner, ran the mile and one-half in 8:32. Karen Daley finished fourth (8:33) for Granada while Maria Anaya was sixth in 8:36.

Kathy Lyons, who won last week's two mile EBAL race in 10:44, dropped to 11th yesterday.

Jacqueline Pla of Amador Valley, who lost to Lyons by a second last Thursday, finished ninth in 8:41. Amador Valley, despite failing to place a runner in the first ten, was the highest local finisher in the boys frosh-soph race. Mario a Silva (15th-10:29) and Greg Novacek, the EBAL winner, (21st-10:31) paced the Dons.

Livermore's Rob Wentworth was third in 10:09 and a pair of San Ramon runners also fared well. Jim Anklam was fifth (11:11) while Nelson Snook was eighth (10:21).

In girls frosh-soph, a pair of Amador runners placed in the top ten to leave the Pleasanton Purple in second at the race's end.

Wendy Behrbaum, another EBAL winner, finished fourth (8:45) and Gail Coensgen finished sixth (8:54). Lori Thompson of San Ramon (7th-8:58) and Pam Geck of Foothill (10th-9:07) rounded out the top local performers.

EBAL faces crisis

The EBAL solved its football playoff dilemma yesterday, but came face to face with a larger crisis encompassing all sports.

In a session barred to reporters, EBAL principals addressed themselves to a memo from Amador Valley Joint Union High School District superintendent, Dr. Bruce Newlin.

Contents of the communication weren't released. But they were known to deal with a lingering budget crisis affecting sports programs throughout the league.

From the private discussions came a motion for EBAL board members to meet next month with Dr. Newlin, along with the superintendents of the Livermore and San Ramon school districts, also represented in the league.

Principals closed the doors on yesterday's session saying that potential job cuts would be discussed. They added that their summit conference with superintendents would likewise be private. Any action spurred by the gathering will be revealed, however.

EBAL principals began surveying the possibility of sports budget cuts a year ago, but have been reluctant to forward suggestions. Their study was undertaken at the behest of district superintendents.

The board of managers did move swiftly yesterday to unravel the potentially confused EBAL football picture.

If two teams tie for first place (Livermore can tie Granada by defeating the Matadors Friday) Livermore will advance to the playoffs by virtue of its win over Granada.

Should three teams deadlock (that can happen if the Cowboys defeat the Matadors, and Amador beats Dublin) coaches of EBAL schools would vote for a representative by phone Saturday morning.

Wildcats claw Gunslingers

Under 8 action shared the spotlight this past week as the San Ramon Wildcats scratched out a tough, 1-0, decision over the Mustang Gunslingers to put themselves into a first place tie.

The goal that gave the 'Guns their first defeat of the season, came seven minutes into the game, when Wildcat Scott Tobias aimed a corner kick over the defenders' and goalie's head for the only score of the game.

Tobias also managed a save at the net and Jon Lamos accounted for 3. Other defensive standouts were Bryan Millins and Mark Nelson. Cited for his fine offensive play was Bret Akin.

Darin Tacconi had 1 save and Kevin Maddow 2 for the losers, while others playing a fine defensive game were Greg Gilbert and Brian Duffel. Impressing an offense were Chris Loeper and Christ Ernst.

In Under 10 play, the Mustang Mavericks kept a commanding five point lead in their division by stamping the San Ramon Skyhawks, 5-3. Four of the five Maverick goals came off the toe of Andrew Marich, one with an assist from Bob Bradford, and Colin Sherrill booted in the other. Maverick goalies Zak Harris and Andy Sachs were credited with 3 and 2 saves respectively. Their efforts on defense were aided by Bob Bradford, Jim Younkin and Jim Daufhters. Looking good offensively were Quentin Cooper and Grant Rosenblum.

For the Hawks, John Greer, Kevin Barr and Andy Williams scored the team's three goals, with assists going to Williams and Mike Narciso. Goalie John Robinson had 6 saves and in addition to the scorers, Steve Schaeffer stood out on defense. Looking good on defense were Brian Blankenship and Steve De Laveaga.

In Under 12 play, the Mustang Vacuqueros took over where the Mustang Mustangs left off the prior week, besting the Mustang Gauchos, 2-1, to give the Mustangs, by virtue of their 6-0 victory over the San Ramon Vikings, sole possession of first place by two points.

The Vacuqueros' Jim Colon scored both goals, all in the final 15 minutes, and the Gauchos booted in their lone tally in the final stanza also. Dennis Amell of the Vacuqueros looked impressive in front of the net.

UNDER 8: In other action, the Mustang Broncos unseated the Mustang Cowboys, 1-0, thanks to a penalty kick by Doug Edwards in the first half and the San Ramon Cougars clawed to victory by a similar score over the San Ramon Bobcats, with the tally coming off a boot by Joel Carleton. A third 1-0 score was recorded when the San Ramon Panthers scored in the final half to slink by the San Ramon Bearcats, the goal being credited to Andrew Edgcome.

Again, it was a 1-0 contest, when the Mustang Appalooses threw the Mustang Buckaroos, as Jamie Karg, assisted by Scott Campbell, booted the only score of the game. Not to be outdone, the Mustang Ral-whides came out on top of a 1-0 final over the San Ramon Jaguars. Kevin Molta slammed in the clincher, 10 minutes into the contest.

A scoreless tie was placed in the records by the San Ramon Tomcats and the Mustang Punters, with fine goal tending work by Bobby Page and Peter Siegfried, respectively, plus strong defense by a host of players from both squads, responsible for the zip-zag contest.

A commanding 4-0 decision was posted by the San Ramon Tigercats over the San Ramon Deltas, with Tigercat scoring coming from Paul Tisa on two occasions, and from Greg Sprague and Jeff Wyne, with one apiece.

UNDER 10: It was San Ramon Hellcats, 1, San Ramon Blue Angels, 0, when Chris Jensen faked the Angel goalie to score the lone Hellcat point, and the Mustang Bullets took aim on the Mustang Diablos, 2-0, when Kevin Farrell and Scott Pope each scored in the second half. Kevin Roberts got an assist on Pope's point.

A close, 2-1, contest developed between the Mustang Ponies and the Mustang Caballeros, but the latter stayed in the saddle during the final 15 minutes, when Bobby Mitchell and Jeff Wheeler each kicked in a point. Dan Lapin, aided by Dennis Dilsaver, scored for the Ponies in the first half.

The Mustang Repeaters couldn't, after they scored once in the first half, with a goal off the toe of Bill McCarthy, but they didn't have to as the San Ramon Skyraiders didn't muster a point, and fell to a 1-0 decision.

Lassoing the San Ramon Flying Tigers were the Mustang Lariats, thanks to the unerring accuracy of Tim Attwood who scored twice, with an assist from Dave Ohlman, to give the Lariats a 2-0 victory.

Another scoreless tie developed when the San Ramon Skyraiders shot down the San Ramon Marauders. The Skyraiders goalies, which included Jeff McMurry and Scott Kierstead had 6 and 3 saves respectively, and the Marauder net defenders Eric Backe and Frank Cassar had 3 and 6 each.

Also drawing, this time with a point each, were the Mustang Sixshooters and the Mustang Vigilantes. John Howard, with an assist from Chris Baker accounted for the Raider's tally, while Jeff Mullaney put one in the final period for the Vigilantes.

Members of Mustang Amigos who scored their team's six points to blank the San Ramon Maulers, were not listed in the stats, but the Amigo coach did cite offensive players Eric Ritter, Michael Lambert and Michael Pickett.

UNDER 12: Another 6-0 score was posted after the Mustangs bucked the San Ramon Vikings, as the slants of Bruce Peverill (3), Philip Cariveau, Danny Hibbard and Gary McCulley completely dominated, and as mentioned, gave the 'Stangs first place all by their lonesome.

A 2-0 affair saw the San Ramon Lightnings striking the San Ramon Avengers. Ron Nanini scored both second half goals for the Lightnings, the first after a fine pass from Kip Van Riper.

Granny's Bedroom, accurate to the finest detail of tiny dentures on a miniature nightstand, was assembled by Mr. and Mrs. Alan Rice to display the exquisite novelty items they will offer for sale at the Artique Nov. 21-23 in Pleasanton.

Indoor 'Artique' combines arts, crafts and antiques in valley debut Nov. 21-23

The "Artique," an indoor show combining the creativity of the present in arts and crafts with the creativity of the past in antiques, will make its debut in the valley this month at the Alameda County Fairgrounds Exhibition Hall.

The show will open Friday, Nov. 21 from noon to 10 p.m. and continue Saturday Nov. 22 from noon to 10 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 23 from noon to 5 p.m.

The Artique is the brainchild of local artists Phyllis Wentworth and Billie Schmer, both of Pleasanton, who have coordinated the Pleasanton street fair for the past three years. Both are active members of the Pleasanton Art League.

"When we decided to focus our experience in a personal business venture, it was felt we should present an indoor show on the largest scale possible, and at the best time of the year for sales," explained Mrs. Schmer in speaking of plans for the show. "We shall aim at a well-balanced show of high quality, and hope to make the Artique an annual event in the valley."

The sponsors believe the Artique, combining arts, crafts and antiques, may be the first show of its kind in the East Bay Area.

The exhibition hall will accommodate approximately 90 booths of varying sizes and selection of purchasable items. To date, all booth spaces have been rented.

I suppose it is really absurd to quibble with success, but since I'm not one to tread after angels, it's always amazed me what people see in a Barbra Streisand performance on film.

She may be great in person and as a disembodied voice on recordings there is a vibrancy which cannot be denied. My reaction, however, to her picture career is purely and simply YUK.

Several people had told me how great "Funny Lady" was and that I should get myself to the nearest theatre for total enjoyment. It is perverse, but I never like anything others have recommended so strongly. It's possible I go expecting too much. That has to be the situation because I'd never question a friend's taste in theatre any more than I'd discuss his religious views or take a stand against motherhood. I waited for a long time before getting around to "Funny Lady" which closed abruptly at the Vine this week. It is a shallow, inept and vulgar piece misrepresenting the further adventures of Fanny Brice.

I am much too young (thank heavens) to have any direct knowledge of the fabled Fanny. Her latter years, when she parodied herself and put in a final claim to fame as 'Baby Snooks' are familiar to me. Her family name was Borach and she was a cousin of neighbors of my own family so there was an occasion many years ago for me to be introduced to her. It was a big deal for the theatre-oriented country boy. My Fanny Brice was not the vision Streisand would have the world accept.

"Funny Girl" had a kind of colorful brashness about it. "Funny Lady" is a gross boar. James Caan, that highly talented but over-exposed in 1974, actor does a sexy, eye-batting bit as Billy Rose which is just about as far from the reality of that hyper-active showman as you can get — either

SETTING THE SCENE

physically or socially. The only calm, cool and collected one in the whole cast was Roddy McDowell as Streisand's friend.

Sequels to successful films have never been as good as the original and "Funny Lady" is no exception. Fortunately, it's bad enough that we won't be plagued with "Son of Funny Lady."

The companion piece was a re-run of a re-run. Barbra Streisand in "For Pete's Sake" in which she committed the ultimate sin. She didn't sing. Her one redeeming feature was overlooked in favor of trying to exploit her minimal talent as a comedienne. The best that can be said is she has a kind of child-like compassion. The strident waif. That might make an interesting title for the next Barbra opus.

"For Pete's Sake" was a comic bit of fluff that could have been very funny in less heavy-footed hands. It was ideal material for Carole Burnett and Harvey Korman directed by Mel Brooks. Michael Sarrazin and Streisand couldn't cope and all the other amusing characters the authors dreamed up were wiped out by the leads who were beyond their depths.

It can't be easy playing vis-a-vis to Streisand. Her 'gangbusters' physical qualities and her pedantic performing erase her romantic leads. Sarrazin has always had a very nice youthful quality. In "For Pete's Sake" he comes off more like a son than lover for Pete's sake. He was badly miscast and whatever talents he brought to the role were buried under a ton-o-Streisand.

Only super sex symbols like Robert Redford seem to be able to put the singer into a proper perspective. "The Way We Were" came off because it had something to say and was directed by a hand strong enough to keep all the elements in line. My theory is that Streisand should be playing a 'step-sister' and not Cinderella.

Took a brief look at "Tommy" and "Godspell" too. A rock opera doesn't do anything for me so I won't comment except to say I noted several hundred teenagers completely wrapped-up in it. "Godspell" made them nervous and that many nervous youngsters can be a trial in a theatre even if they are a 'Godsend' to the snack bar. I'm not one to complain, however, when the theatre is full, the audience is happy and the management is ecstatic.

This combo is going into a second week at the Vine, so there must be something to it. "Funny Lady" has been replaced with "Whiffs" starring ex-streisand honey Elliott Gould. Also in the cast are Eddie Albert, Harry Guardino and Godfrey Cambridge. The prevues looked interesting. The co-hit is a repeat of Burt Reynolds in "W.W. and the Dixie Dance Kings."

See you at the movies this week?

The two notrump response to an artificial two club opening shows at least eight high-card points and a notrump-type hand. It also should deny any worthless doubleton and IF POSSIBLE THERE SHOULD BE AN HONOR IN EACH SUIT.

The idea is that if the opener has a notrump hand of his own there will be no harm in letting that opening hand become dummy.

With three queens and a king and 4-3-3-3 distribution, South responds two notrump. North has opened two clubs with a 23-point hand so he

An Indiana reader wants to know how to play a bridge hand with no king of diamonds.

The answer is that gremlins sometimes get into a newspaper and eat the king of diamonds. In that case it is up to the reader to find that hand that needs that king and see if the article can then make sense. If it doesn't the gremlins have really outsmarted us.

Wheels keep valley government agencies rolling

Like their suburban clients, the two- or three-car family, the valley's major local governmental agencies are heavily dependent on the wheel, a Times survey discovered yesterday.

The valley's three chief agencies have 289 vehicles between them, ranging from your common everyday patrol car worth about $5,000 to a mobile aerial truck for trimming tree branches, a rig which will cost Pleasanton $30,000 this year.

The agencies see themselves as taking a frugal attitude toward vehicles. Livermore and Pleasanton officials said that junior staff people who are entitled to autos for working purposes are driving around in five or six year old hand-me-downs from more senior staff persons. Even the senior staff officers like Pleasanton city manager Bill Edgar and assistant city manager Alan Campbell aren't doing too well in the status derby — they drive 1972 Ford Torinos.

Valley Community Services District finance officer Newell Cummings said, "We prefer to run the cars till the wheels come off." VCSD has not purchased a new staff car during the past three years.

Pleasanton tried leasing its staff cars a couple of years ago in order to help its cash flow in budgeting, but the experiment didn't work, said Larry Miller, assistant to the city manager. The city found that the sell-off payment it had to make at the end of the 36-month lease was far in excess of the traditional down payment.

But Pleasanton is not happy with financing a car over three years in the traditional way either. It has established a sinking fund in which it will save money for future full cash payments for automobiles.

In these days of expensive gasoline and high initial car costs, the governments are thinking about stepping down a little in their automobile purchases. The Livermore City Council in its budget review last spring told the staff to investigate the possibility of buying compact cars for the staff. Miller in Pleasanton said that his city is thinking about dropping from the mid-sized class (Ford Torino, Chevy Malibu) to the compact class (Ford Maverick, Chevy Nova) the next time it sends out bids for cars. Compact pickup trucks have been purchased by Pleasanton and VCSD and have been found to do many jobs satisfactorily with some savings in gasoline costs.

As the cities' fleets have grown, people have been hired to tend them. Pleasanton hired a full-time mechanic during the past year and is now investigating bulk purchases of tires and other vehicular supplies. Big maintenance jobs like overhauls which occur infrequently are still sent out to local dealers. The city fleet is still too small for a full repertoire of auto equipment, said Miller.

Pleasanton flirted with a propane-powered vehicle a couple of years ago when cities were trying to ecologize their fleets. Propane burns cleaner than gasoline and long-time Pleasanton resident John Deetz had run propane-powered trucks which didn't need overhauls for hundreds of thousands of miles.

But Deetz' trucks were old-fashioned low compression engines and they could burn the propane fuel without burning out a valve. The Pleasanton city vehicle burned out quite a few valves and the city switched to gasoline.

VCSD had a little better luck with propane. At the insistence of former director Byron Athan, VCSD acquired a propane-burning truck. It's still in service, but it runs on gasoline 80% of the time so the liquid fuel will lubricate its valves, explained VCSD general manager Paul Ryan.

The Times didn't ask any of the agencies how much it encourages employees to walk or bicycle, but we did learn some interesting things.

Pleasanton has a station wagon for secretaries to pick up the mail at the post office. The city staff is not satisfied with the late hour of mail delivery and feels the wagon is necessary for that trip plus such errands as bringing printing jobs back from the printer.

VCSD's budget for vehicles this year totals $8,670. The district, which provides only water, sewer, fire and recreational services, has 23 vehicles among its 66 employees, a ratio of one vehicle for three employees. It's also a ratio of one vehicle per 1,217 VCSD area residents.

Pleasanton has a ratio of 1.3 employees per vehicle and 254 citizens per vehicle. The budget this year is $137,900 for vehicles, including a $30,000 street sweeper which is expected to last eight to 12 years. The total fleet population is 122 vehicles.

Livermore's ratios are 1.7 employees per vehicle and 340 citizens per vehicle. Total costs for the current budget year in Livermore were unavailable.

Police cars in Pleasanton start to break down around 40,000 miles and are traded each year. A couple of them are kept as back-up cars. Like the five- or six-year-old staff cars, the patrol cars are worth so little at the end of their hard-driven one year stint that they fetch only a couple of hundred dollars. The city tried to auction off a couple of the cars recently and got only two bids in the low hundreds of dollars. They seem to have value only as trades on new vehicles, said Miller.

Cities send out specifications for new vehicles to dealers, usually local dealers in the case of cars and trucks. The city awards the purchase to the lowest bidder. There is little, if any, discount from the local car dealers, but it's nice to keep the business in the valley, said Miller.

Cities do save some money, as much as $500 per unit, on police cars through a special deal with the state of California.

But even police departments, known for high horsepower under the hood, are getting 'savings-conscious' in these days of high gas prices.

Three reasons why the rich get richer.

The rich have it so much easier than us.

They can be happy driving Toyotas and Pintos. While we need the status of Buicks and Porsches.

They're perfectly relaxed in old tennis shoes and baggy sweaters. While we feel uncomfortable in anything less than double-knit slacks and expensive loafers.

Worst of all, they mix up delicious bloody marys, superb screwdrivers, and impeccable martinis with Royal Gate Vodka. While we would feel like social paupers if we didn't pay at least five bucks a bottle for some vodka with a "Russian" name.

It's really not fair. The rich see no shame in saving money.

Lower price than Capri II Sport Coupe.**
Longer engine guarantee than Porsche.*****

A car doesn't have to be foreign and expensive to be exciting. The 1976 Monza 2+2 gives you the styling and performance of foreign sports cars costing much more—yet it's economical to buy, and efficient to operate. Economy like 30 MPG highway and 19 MPG city (compare it to Datsun 280Z). And a surprisingly low suggested base price (compare it to the Capri II Sport Coupe). Efficiency like a 4-cylinder engine guaranteed for 5 years or 60,000 miles. Porsche doesn't guarantee its engine that long. And excitement. The unmistakable feeling of a truly responsive road machine. Before you spend too much on a foreign car, test drive the new Monza 2+2 at your local Chevy Dealer. Economy, efficiency, and excitement. That's what it's all about.

Diablo residents oppose SRV city

DIABLO — Residents here want a city of their own. Many persons at a town hall meeting this past week said they didn't want to be part of a proposed city encompassing most of the populated areas of San Ramon Valley.

Some Diablo property owners have asked the Local Agency Formation Commission to put the matter of cityhood for Diablo on the November 1976 ballot.

But, so have others wanting a city of Roundhill and another of the greater San Ramon Valley.

Robert Tiernan told participants in the town hall meeting that the needs of Diablo differ from those of the rest of the area.

"We don't want to change our roads, we don't have to alter our tax rate, we simply want to run our own business and take care of our own problems."

Diablo represents about two to three per cent of this proposed city. Should the 'Town of San Ramon Valley' become a reality, what voice would we have then? he asked.

Tiernan said if Diablo became a city of its own, home rule would be retained.

Also speaking at the meeting was Don Sledge, chairman of the Taxpayers for Local Control through Incorporation (TLC) which proposes a city taking in most of the San Ramon Valley, including Diablo.

Sledge said Diablo's identity would be retained in the proposed city of San Ramon Valley.

He said Diablo was included within the proposed boundaries of San Ramon Valley because it is part of the valley.

ley's sphere of influence and it's the gateway to the Blackhawk property.

A proposal calls for 4,200 homes to be built on the Blackhawk Ranch.

As part of the meeting, residents signed petitions asking that Diablo be independent of the proposed larger city.

The formation commission will hear arguments for cityhood in the San Ramon Valley this afternoon.

Jaycees seek young farmer

The contest is open to young men between the ages of 18 and 35 who earn at least 25% of their annual income through agricultural.

The winner will be announced at a banquet Jan. 17, the beginning of Jaycee Week, which will be celebrated nationwide.

He will enter state competition to be held in San Diego during February.

The Livermore Jaycees also will ask local businessmen who deal with the agricultural community to help support the project.

Health clinic offers tests

SAN RAMON — Where can you go today to get a free eye examination, free blood pressure test, free lung capacity measurement and even a free test to see if you have alcoholic tendencies? You can go to the Health Fair, 2-8 p.m. in the Family Medical Center, 9260 Alcosta Blvd., San Ramon.

Medics from every field will be swarming over the bright new center, eager to tell you about health careers; show you pictures of childbirth; teach you how to examine your breasts for cancer; and offer you the above-mentioned tests.

Among the representatives of 20 health organizations will be people to tell you about Overeaters Anonymous; firemen to show off their life-saving machines; and members of the Alameda-Contra Costa County Optometric Association to administer the "MCT," or Modified Clinical Technique exam to check for visual acuity, muscle balance and cataracts.

No appointments are necessary — just drop in. The fair is sponsored by Valley Memorial Hospital, which operates the Family Medical Center. Valley Memorial Hospital auxiliary members and volunteer nurses will be assisting at the fair.

SR man leads insurance sales

Michael Bronk of San Ramon was honored by John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company as a regional sales leader recently.

A member of the company's Hayward district office, Bronk was among 70 representatives from the company's Pacific Coast region who qualified to attend the Regional Honor Club conference in Monterey in October.

Cancer deaths still rising

SAN RAMON — Cancer deaths have gone up once again this year, according to a just released study — yet half of the victims could have been saved with early enough detection.

To inform more people about the dread disease, the Contra Costa County Unit of the American Cancer Society is staging an informational campaign, Nov. 16-22.

Posters and brochures will be distributed in local businesses and clubs. Organizations may make arrangements for a free speaker of film by calling the cancer society at 934-7640.

Cancer information will be available at two health fairs coming up: both Thursday, Nov. 13, one at Vallecito School, 1000 Upper Happy Valley Road, Lafayette, 10 a.m.-3 p.m., the other in the Family Medical Center, Alcosta Boulevard, San Ramon, 2-8 p.m.

Hotline follows San Ramon path with new name

PLEASANTON — Not to be outdone by the group of citizens who ran a big contest to name newly incorporated San Ramon Valley — and decided on the name San Ramon Valley — the local counseling and referral service formerly known as Hotline, which has combined with Valley Youth Services, has re-named itself: Hotline.

Hotline's board of directors ran a two-month-long contest to find a better name. Among the many suggestions submitted were many excellent suggestions.

But: "The more we went over new names, the more everything sounded like something that might be difficult to advertise, or didn't quite project the image we were looking for," a Hotline staffer explained.

"Some great names made the finals list and when we checked to see if they were already in use, we found that some were names of magazines, deodorants and household cleaners. So we kept trying.

"For the present, the decision has been to retain the name Hotline and continue seeking a new name for however long that takes."

Meanwhile, the board has drawn from the names that were included in the final review list to determine who should receive the prizes that were donated by three Livermore merchants for the contest.

Winner is Delpha Chesterman of Livermore who suggested "HELP." Runnerups were Kathy Riggs ("Fresh Start") Elise Harris ("Contact") and Barbara Rawles ("Open Arms").

Services have been expanded to provide comprehensive valley-wide coverage with an emphasis on drug and alcohol abuse information, referral, education and consultation. Services focus on 12-18 year-olds and their families, and counseling is free.

The Hotline Help Center is located at 4361 Railroad Ave., Pleasanton (462-5544) and provides individual, group and family consultation. The center is open on a drop-in basis from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, other hours by appointment.

Project AIRE, alcohol information, referral, education and consultation center is directly next door to Hotline (462-5733) and provides individual, group, family and court referral consultation.

A 24-hour phone crisis, information, referral and listening service, staffed by trained volunteers, is available by calling 828-HELP.

Youth outreach is offered through contact on almost every junior and senior high school in the valley. Hotline counselors seek to help youth in dealing with situations they are experiencing and to encourage their involvement in an alternatives program.

The youth alternatives program, Project Kickback, is designed to provide a chance for youth involvement in the community and in outside activities such as backpacking and camping trips, group meetings and concerts.

The family therapy component offers services to valley families with an emphasis on increasing communication and understanding among family members.

The Chicano Outreach component provides counseling and information and referral service to Spanish-speaking and other minority youth and adults in the valley. The counselor is bilingual and bicultural.

Focus of the drug education unit is training and consultation to parents and school personnel. Workshops for parents will be offered in assertiveness training throughout the year. Eventually it is hoped that groups of well-trained teams of parents in the valley will act as a resource in providing information, education and consultation to other parents.

Community groups can learn more about Hotline by scheduling a presentation through director Candy Ingram.

Volunteers for the 24-hour switchboard and to help in the center are always welcomed.

Turner added, "There isn't even a room in which to interview patient or a private phone to use."

The consensus at the council meeting was that a great many problems remain to be solved before a 24-hour crisis intervention center can begin at VMH.

Larry Freeman warned, "We're going to explore ideas. Right now everything is up in the air. I hate to build up everyone's hopes in advance, because we may not end up with anything."

After years of debate, this may be one thing on which VMH and valley mental health professionals can agree.

— by Karen Boyle

Crisis center suggested

The possibility of setting up a 24-hour emergency psychiatric service for the valley has surfaced once again.

Valley Memorial Hospital assistant administrator Larry Freeman has sent a letter to 25 mental health professionals, asking them to discuss establishment of a crisis intervention center at a yet-to-be-scheduled meeting.

Freeman has proposed setting up a psychiatric call panel to provide 24-hour referral and emergency screening service at VMH. Under Freeman's plan, local mental health professionals would be on call in cases of psychiatric emergencies (mainly suicide attempts and drug overdoses).

VMH has no money to pay for the service, and Freeman has suggested the psychiatric workers bill patients directly for their service.

Freeman said, "The technicalities of billing can be discussed. I have offered one proposal and I'm hoping others will present their ideas at the meeting."

Judy Turner, psychiatric social worker at Valley Mental Health Center, reacted unenthusiastically to the proposal. "Frankly, I'm not anxious to be put on call when I can't be sure I'm going to get paid. I'm sure other professionals would rather accept private clients they can count on, than wait for something they don't know will come through."

Sally Green of Alameda County Mental Health Association said Freeman's letter was "a step in the right direction." She urged valley professionals to meet with Freeman to work out a solution.

Turner and Green made their comments at the Nov. 6 meeting of the Valley Council for Mental Health.

Members of the council noted VMH emergency room staff must be trained to recognize and handle psychiatric emergencies.

"Doctors and nurses often don't have the time or know how to deal with stressful situations in the emergency room," said Joanne Bascom. "There's no medical social worker on the VMH staff to help."

Turner added, "There isn't even a room in which to interview patient or a private phone to use."

The consensus at the council meeting was that a great many problems remain to be solved before a 24-hour crisis intervention center can begin at VMH.

Larry Freeman warned, "We're going to explore ideas. Right now everything is up in the air. I hate to build up everyone's hopes in advance, because we may not end up with anything."

After years of debate, this may be one thing on which VMH and valley mental health professionals can agree.
